

RESPONDING TO WATER QUALITY EMERGENCIES

Natural disasters such as earthquakes, floods, and hurricanes cause contamination of municipal water systems over a large area. Industrial and other chemical leaks can also cause contamination of water supplies. If a water quality emergency occurs in your location, follow your local municipality's instructions for addressing the emergency. If a boil order is issued, follow that boil order advisory until you have been notified by local authorities that your water is potable and safe to use.

Following is our recommended procedure for cleaning and start up of Pentair

POST